Anyone in the world can write a book if you have something to say. This book is about my opinions on various topics. It is not meant to be of any value, but only as light reading. I came to the USA like so many others as a foreign student with exactly $2,500 in borrowed money. I got my Master's and Ph.D. in Electrical Engineering and worked in a dozen companies over a fifteen year period. Along the way I thought about what America means to me, the good, the bad and the quite frankly bizarre features of America which in a changing world means America has to change too. The good features of America in my opinion are the constitutionally protected rights to free speech, a strong court and police system, almost fair elections, a strong military, technology growth and development, a higher education system that brings students like me half-way around the world to study in America. The bad features of America are rampant and uncontrolled illegal immigration from Mexico of people with only a sixth grade education, the sense of entitlement these people have about getting free education, free health-care and all at the taxpayer's expense. Then you have uncontrolled government spending during wartime against Iraq, Afghanistan and North Korea. You have wasteful programs like the Joint Strike Fighter which was promised to save money and instead is wasting it. The truly bizarre features about America are the health-care system where we are not allowed to import drugs from Canada, but are forced to buy the same drugs at vastly inflated prices in America, all so that the pharmaceutical companies can make a profit. Thus the American public is subsidizing the research and development of medicines so that the whole rest of the world can then buy those medicines at a fraction of the cost Americans pay. I propose strange solutions in my book like selling school playgrounds to companies so they can build factories on them. I want to fix health-care by barring any company in America from providing health-care or pension benefits so as to give capitalism a true chance in fixing health-care. I believe that if companies can give you only money and nothing more, then you have 300 million Americans individually shopping for health-care and the cost will go down. Like Kerry said, give everybody Blue Cross and protect those who are born with debilitating diseases. I voted for Obama and Kerry, but I am not a democrat, I am an independent and I wish everybody in America was the same.
